CLASS HISTORY

September 8, 1971 — that was the day it all began. Over 400 stupid, immature, scrawny kids entered the maze of corridors, rooms and teachers called Wilmington High. Most of us, being naive and very gullible, became the victims of jokes like being told to go to the third floor. Trying to find the swimming pool didn't work out either. And who'll ever forget buying those elevator tickets.

Ah, but we were spirited and quick learners. At out very first class meeting, we were brought together. We became a little wiser after being told there was no third floor, swimming pool, or elevator. After learning that, we got down to business. We elected our officers. Cheryl Jensen, president, Linda Kovitch, vice-president, Cindy Laquidara, treasurer and Robin Land, secretary, were given the job of leading us through our first confusing year, with a lot of help from our advisor, Mr. Jones. We were told we would have to pull together to make ours the greatest class to graduate from Wilmington High. I'm sure a few chuckles were heard at that time and glances exchanged between enemies.

And so it all began. Our leaders gave us the honor of starting a new tradition of running a Freshman class dance. A lot of us got involved in sports to follow in the footsteps of big names like Mike Esposito, Dick Gillis and Bill Gustus. By the end of the year, our spirit and intelligence were beginning to show through. People were beginning to notice those puny freshmen.

Thus began another year. We entered the school once again, no longer tagged "stupid freshmen" but "cocky sophomores." Now was our turn to play the tricks.

Our elected officers that year were Doria McMillan, president, Lori McNabb, vice-president, Cindy Laquidara, treasurer, and Paula Kavanaugh, secretary. Our confidence had grown over the summer so we attempted and successfully carried out two dances. We also made our first big decision and picked our class rings. We were getting smarter all the time.

The most important project we undertook that year was sponsoring a donkey basketball game. Besides being a fun-filled two hours of donkey chasing and cleaning up after them, we raised $500 to donate to the Kevin Nolan Scholarship fund, in memory of our dear friend.

Another chapter of our story began in our Junior year as we entered the now well-known halls of our faithful alma mater. Our attitude was that of "We're almost there!", and we knew what we were headed for.

We were the big upperclassmen. The teachers were old buddies by now. But now was the time we really had to work together with one goal in mind — to get out of high school and into the real world.

We still had our spirit and intelligence, though. We elected the same officers to serve as our leaders again. After receiving our class rings and the usual dance was over, we turned our attention to one of the biggest events of the year — The Junior Variety Show. First, we ran a very successful Patron's Drive. Then we planned, organized and rehearsed, sometimes, and ended up with the biggest money making show ever put on. Our enthusiasm and energy brought in a record-breaking crowd. And then it was curtain time. The curtain was raised and "Jones's Jiving Juniors" came out with a display of questionable talent in a decent show. But no matter how good or how bad a show, it achieved it's purpose. We earned over $2000 for our future activities and had a great time doing it.

A benefit hockey game was held for the Kevin Nolan Scholarship fund. After that, everyone got ready for the prom.

"Color My World" was a great success in bringing the class together and showing each other a different side of ourselves. Robin Land was elected queen. In here court were Cindy Holloway, Terry Bonaccorsi, Julie Wallace and Leslie Webber.

Our activities for that year ended with our Junior Banquet in June. During it, many students received awards for high achievement in classes.

All of a sudden, the last stretch was upon us. We were now seniors, still young but a little more serious. We knew that the end would come all too fast and simultaneously the beginning of a new and strange life. Books and teachers were old to us now. But the life that followed this year would be different, unknown and unfamiliar. We knew we had to complete the final preparations. Our officers chosen this year were Vin Scifo, Steve Olson, Cindy Laquidara, and Paula Kavanaugh.

We planned our activities. They included bowling, rollerskating, swim party and pizza party — just for the fun of it to live up our last year together. We sponsored the Victory Dance and ran another Patron's Drive.

Our Senior Class Play was held in November. "The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Small of the Crowd" and its cast were directed by Miss Carol Chipman. A good time was had by all in the audience and also those on stage.

Another benefit hockey game was held for the Kevin Nolan Scholarship fund and the Jimmy Ward Scholarship fund. The game proved to be a poor display of sportsmanship (mostly on the part of the teachers), but a success in raising money for these funds.

We did something very unique this year. As our gift to the town of Wilmington, we sponsored a blood drive. Due to the generosity of many students and townspeople, we gained about 210 pints of blood to put in Wilmington's blood bank.

Its importance cannot be understated. Again, our enthusiasm and energy succeeded in making our plans work. Now we await our Senior Prom. It will be held May 29 at Danversport Yacht Club.

We got an extra bonus this year — a new principal. Through Dr. Eisenberg's work, many changes have taken place and a closer communication between students and administration has been brought about. We are proud to be his first graduating class and wish him many successful years ahead.

And now the climax of our story is about to take place.

On June 8 we will be leaving Wilmington High — its memories, our friends, its failures and achievements. We have not succeeded in everything we've done, and probably won't succeed in everything we do in the future. But our achievements have been many and outnumber our failures. We leave a long chapter in our lives and look to the future. To quote our class slogan, we realize, "We've Only Just Begun."

— Nora Pelletier

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1975, residents of Wilmington High School, Wilmington, Massachusetts, being of lawful grade and of sound mind and memory, though that fact may be hard to believe, and having a multitude of talents, skills, qualities and wisdom which we are generous enough to bestow on others, do publish and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament.

First, to our patriotic principal, Dr. Eisenberg, we leave a taped recording of Kate Smith singing "God Bless America" to accompany the "National Athem" each morning. And since the office does not have a flag, we leave one to Mr. Garrett so he won't have to salute the "squak box" every morning.

Cindy Costa leaves her notorious nickname, Panda, to any dark-haired and pudgy girl; Vin Scifo leaves his presidency to the next great Italian; Betty Deveau leaves her height to anyone who wants it; Louise Swisher leaves her talent of skipping Mrs. Thiel's class and not getting caught to any one looking for a challenge; Joe Shibilia leaves the newspaper to Bob McNeil; Karen Smith leaves her Detroit accent to her sister Sue; and Kim Strouse leaves her blond locks to anyone who wants to be a summer blond in December.

To the administration we leave 5,000 threatening towing announcements and all the resulting towing bills. To Sargeant McCarthy, Lieutenant Longo, and Corporal Dadoly we leave machine guns to enable them to stop more than one non-passe at a time during STOP duty. In case you don't know what STOP stands for it stands for Stupid Teachers on Patrol. Fourth period lunch leaves to Mr. Hill and Mrs. Lockwood starting gates for the lunch tables. Kim Baldwin leaves to Mr. Fessenden a one- year subscription to Ms. Magazine in hopes that it will raise his consciousness. Type III girls leave to next year's type III classes a bag of ear plugs to combat Mrs. Gershon's laugh.

Gay Rinker leaves her name to anyone who wants to put up with the hassles. Lynn Rinker leaves his name on the girl's gym list for the last four years. Cindy Laquidara leaves four year's worth or 1,440 empty lunch trays to the lunch ladies; however, she will never leave her lunches to anyone. Kevin Ness leaves his attendance record to anyone who needs a vacation for 87 days.

Kris Hinxman leaves his bench splinters to Fessy to pass out next year to the senior of his choice. Diane Armstrong leaves her brother to anyone who can stand him. Bob Dorval leaves all the beer in Shamrocks to Chris Rounds. Diane Shukis leaves her locker to an unfortunate freshman who still has four years to go at WHS. Kathy Barry leaves her secret to good marks to next year's clerical classes. Kris Wicks leaves 101 ways to skip Miss Longo's class without getting caught to anyone who can top it. Marie Fantasia leaves a coffee perculator in Greco's room for when she returns. Cathy Morrissette would like to leave the British Iles to Mr. Maggio, all the euphanisms she has learned to Mr. Greco, and the song pscho therapy by Melany to Mr. Scanlon. Kathy, Lori, and Doria leave Miss Cassidy all their field hockey ability and a box of fresh, slimey, juicey worms.

Mrs. Aldrich's junior year Satire and Commedy class leaves her the Bird Farm and seminars. Her Grammar and Usage classes leave her a box of Reece's peanut butter cups and the frustrations from parents and friends of her grammar snob students who continuously correct everyone's grammar. To Mrs. Mindell all the CBR classes leave 963 forgotten vocabulary words. To Mr. Jones, our class advisor, we update his means of transportation by leaving him a 10 speed bike. Matchmaker Mrs. Gershon is left to any Juniors who don't have dates to the Senior Prom next year.

Terri Schultz and Mary Simmons leave assemblies in the auditorium to anyone looking for a few laughs. Julie Wallace warns Paul Cipriani not to say a certain thing to Geno. Chuck Wood leaves Diane to Eric to walk to class, soccer to his brothers, and biology to Rick Fudge. Joe Leary leaves the town park and 660's; Cindy Topping leaves Allyne Rice a senior sleepout without Nally. Judy Wright leaves her absent notes to Carole Centrella, and her gym clothes to anyone who has locker #285 and hopefully a strong nose to go with it. Jackie Stygles leaves Tommy Gillis an empty beer can; Kathy Sullivan leaves her boxing gloves at Ruggerio's party; and Cindy Topping leaves all the Home Ec. teachers a free sundae from Bishops.

You may not have known it, but in our own class we have several talented writers who have written books. First, Lauri Lombardi and Linda Kovitch have written a book entitled "How to Get Caught Forging Library Passes". This book has been dedicated to Mr. Hamilton. Leslie Keough leaves "1000 Ways to Play Dumb" to anyone who can use it to their advantage; and Kenny Levitt leaves his book, "The Defense of King Richard" to Congressman Tsongas.

Wildlife expert Pat Mason leaves all her bull stories to Mr. Garrett. To Mr. Fessenden Linda Kovitch leaves a barrel to put empty beer cans in after cocktail hour is over. Lousie Swisher leaves Mrs. Gershon all her lit matches and cigarettes from the last four years. Frank DePiano leaves his hitious laugh to Fred Bellissmo to humor him through next year's football season. Ralph Peterson leaves his telephone number to Mrs. Symonds so she can call his mother anytime she wants. Gail Knott and Linda Catalano leave their class "Twinkle toes" to any student in Miss McCarthy's dancing class.

Debbie Lancaster leaves her well-fought-for seat at lunch to Beth Baldwin; Rick McCully leaves his 5.7 record to Joe Tannian; Debbie Fahey leaves her locker to John and Susan; Cindy Holloway and Carol Morin leave Stop & Go to Brenda Rossi and successors; and Karen MacEachern just leaves period! Don O'Connell would like to leave his size to his little brother Scotty, better judgement to Mr. Fessenden, and a piece of cake to Mr. Greco. Rich Goodspeed leaves his parking space to Mr. Garrett; Brian Godfrey leaves his elevator shoes to Chuck Gilotti; Bonnie Hebsch leaves Kerin Pilcher a closed off bridge; and Willis Lyford leaves his soft spoken personality and a muzzle to Mark Smith.

In the event that the "squak box" breaks down, Sue Doucette leaves her mouth to replace it. Linda Catalano would like to leave her and Kris's locker to next year's class sweethearts. Nora Pelletier leaves her typewriter and what is left of her eraser to Sue Smith. Debbie Lucci leaves her whistles, hot tape recorder, and Mrs. Stultz to Nancy Sullivan and Janet Yankowski. Kevin Tighe leaves his little bag of tricks daring anyone to open it.

And finally, along with our thanks and appreciation to the faculty and administration, we leave to Mr. Kelley his halls in WHS empty of still another graduation class, the Class of 1975.

CLASS PROPHECY

In September of 1990, I decided to go and see Ed Harnish who is now a full fledged hypnotist. I wanted to see what has become of some of my illustrious classmates.

The first revelation I have is Kim Baldwin as president of the Wilmington Men's Club. Assisting her is Joe Russo in charge of slimnastics. Mad-dog Wally has gone mad about weight-lifting. Don Churchill is giving ballet lessons to Bob Dorval, who is now the W.H.S. football coach.

Stunned by this turn of events, I wonder what is to come. Paula Kavanaugh is now head cheerleader for the Boston Patriots. Ralph Peterson is waterboy at Schaefer. He is in charge of bringing water or whatever to John Kaminski to help him score all those touchdowns. Mark Callahan, whose new scoring method is based on some of those weirdo math department formulas, is in charge of the football cards. Gene Witham is his head dispenser, trying to recoup his losses.

Heading back to dear old Wilmington, I ran into the bank to cash a check. Who was working there, none but president, Jake Tighe. Doria McMillan, Tammy Oliveira, Cindy Laquidara, and Cindy Costa are his secretaries, and Steve Brander as his speech writer. Willie Lyford and Lorraine Spada are working as tellers. Don O'Connell was a teller, but after being short $1000, he is now the custodian.

As I leave the bank and head to Jack-in-the-Box, I find Kevin Ness, Jack Stygles and Carl Butler occupying their usual seats. Vin Scifo, his wife Marilyn and their sixteen kids are going through the line in the Rosil Mobile. Leaving Jack-in-the-Box, I almost ran into Linda Allen in her finance's new Rolls Royce.

Has this town gone crazy? Surely old W.H.S. hasn't. I seek refuge in these hallowed halls. As I come in the front door, I am greeted by the new principal, Bob Bavota. Julie Wallace is his secretary. Mary Markey is now the superintendant. Steve Olson is still trying to pass Algebra I, with Lynn Rinker as the teacher. Jimmy O'Conners has taken over the counseling department, with Gene Reithel and Jamie Hadfield as guards. Robin Land is now the school truant officer.

The Class of '75 has taken over everywhere, I must check out the town hall to see if they have infiltrated there. Mark West is now the town manager. Marie Fantasia is working on the tri-centenial commission. Leslee Webber is the recreation director. Vince Castellano is chairman of the board of health. Brian Godfrey, Mark Yankowski, Richard Diehl and Linda Kovitch are the selectmen. Surely there must be one place that the class has not taken over.

I take a short walk down by the Town Crier, where Joe Shibilia is now the editor. Two hundred yards down the railroad tracks was our secret hide-a-way. Now there are condominiums owned and operated by Kathy Sullivan, Elaine Heim and Lori McNabb. Steve Pilcher, Leo Jones, Wayne Vokey and Dana Rouche are their grounds keepers. Stunned by this takeover of the town, I head back to my job at the drugstore on Route I.

The snapping of a can opening awakens me from the trance.

I bid farewell to dear old Wilmington. As I leave the office, I see other members of my class of '75 going in for help. I hope they have better luck than I did.

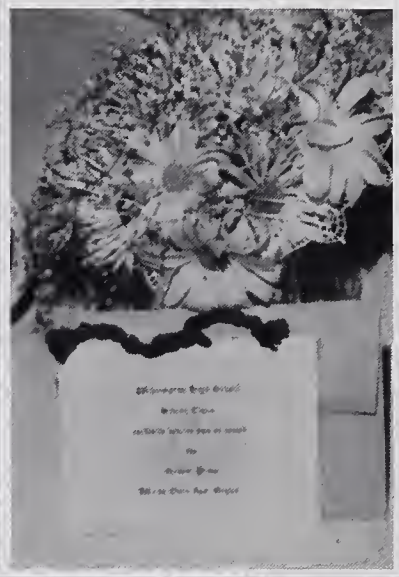
SENIOR



DANVERS PORT

SALUTATORY

I would like to welcome you to the graduating exercises of our class of 1975. There is really nothing I can say that hasn't been said many times before at past graduations, so I'll be brief.

Today marks the end of twelve years of formal education.

The enforced shelter of high school life is left behind as we venture out into the world in pursuit of a career and, hopefully, happiness. From the very first year of school, we have been prepared for the moment when we would be on our own and recognized as adults. The question is, "Are we ready?" For the first time, we will be making our own decisions, forming our own lives. This will be the greatest of all challenges. It will not be easy. We can't escape the fact that these are trying times. Inflation and unemployment will make the task of providing and caring for ourselves and potential families all the more difficult. Some of us, will embark on this course immediately, joining the work force while others of us will be forced to work to assist in providing for additional education we seek. Many uncertainties lie ahead but as we gain experience in the coming years, hopefully, these uncertainties will be overcome.

I am sure that those in attendance today join me in wishing each graduate success and more importantly happiness in whatever he or she undertakes. And, on behalf of the class of 1975, I would like to thank you for attending this ceremony.

— Mark Callahan

CLASS ESSAY

Good afternoon! Today my fellow classmates and I are not only celebrating the conclusion of our high school education, but the birth of our future. Like the beginning of our country, two hundred years ago, our new birth sets us on our independent journey. But like our revolutionary country, we are unsure of our destiny, confused about our route and in quest of truth.

It is important to remember we start our futures with the potential of greatness, just as our country was started with the same potential and built it into a leading nation.

If we develop our potential with knowledge, persistance, and confidence, we shall reach our goals. The great inventors and government leaders in our country's history knew they had potential and were determined to attain greatness. Each one of us has individual talents and individual goals which we must develop and pursue. After examining our dreams, and evaluating our abilities, as many of our forefathers did, we will then know which route to follow. Once on that route, our ambitions and attitudes will lead us to our destiny.

If we allow our potentials to lie dorment, we shall never have the personal satisfaction of accomplishment and productivity. Of course, there will be those of us who will have set backs and many will need the courage to face disappointments. But if we have truly strived for our dreams, the disappointment cannot be in ourselves, for we have tried.

In the history of the United States, great men have faultered but others have learned by their mistakes. As Longfellow said: "Look not mournfully into the past, it comes not back again. Wisely improve the present, it is thine. Go forth to meet the shadowy future, without fear, and with a manly heart."

Others besides ourselves have been scared of failure, yet they faced their fears with courage and were able to resolve them. There will be many times in our lives we will be scared and perplexed: However, our courage, wisdom, and determination like those of our heritage, will guide us. Even if we feel we have failed, we cannot completely regard it as failure for others may profit by our mistakes.

Our strong courageous leaders defiantly created a new government as they walked into their dark unknown future with determination and courage, leaving behind a path for others to follow. As we depart here today with our potentials, we will walk out into our bright, new future remembering the words of Longfellow: "Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime, And, departing, leave behind us footprints on the sands of time!"

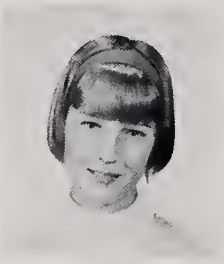
WILMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

WILMINGTON, MASSACHUSETTS

We, the Class of 1975, dedicate this Yearbook to Life and to all the people who have helped to shape ours.

School Days

CAN YOU FIND YOUR KINDERGARTEN FRIENDS? Ann Butters, Linda Allen, Bill Andersen, Donna Beninati, Johnny Andrews, Bonnie Hebsh, Alan Jensen, Dougey Spring, Brucey Macdonald, Richy Goodspeed, Freddy Cain, Jamie Hatfield, Marcy Lester, and Markey Smith.

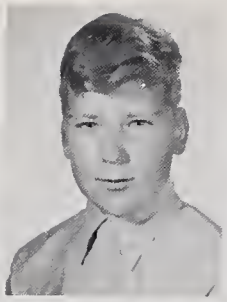


Twelve Times Us

First grade we learned to smile.
We acknowledged one another's friendship.
Second, we grew closer,
Through sharing Oreos and playing red rover.
Third followed, we learned to tease —
We sent one another home crying.
Fourth brought fieldtrips.
Fifth, we began to identify with each other.

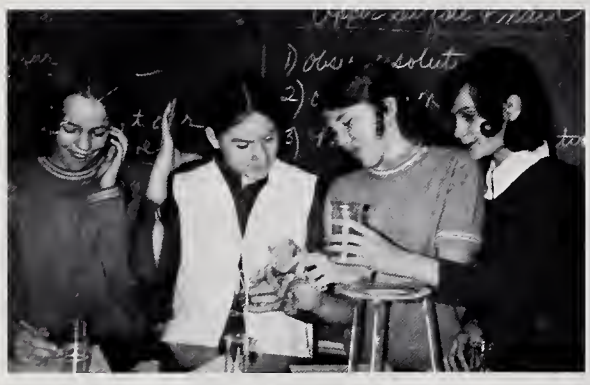
1974 - 1975

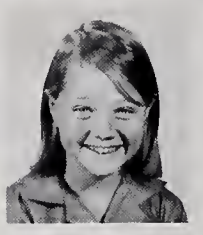
Sixth separated our friendship,
We were bused to different schools.
We met new people and together we changed.
Seventh grade brought new interests.
Eighth, we started to work together.
Freshman year we raised money.
We smiled and cried together.
Sophomore year showed hopes for the future.
Junior year, we reached out to each other.
We learned to relax and to smile through the hardest times.



Aa

Bb





Cc

Senior year, many walked with pride and happiness,
A few walked with fear.
This, we all knew, was our last year as a whole,
Our most important year.
We became adults.
We had made each other what we were: No other class had done better.
With hands clasped and heads held high,
We said, "We are one."

Dear Students:

This is an important time in your life, graduation from high school. You deserve a hearty congratulations for accomplishing this achievement. But your work has just begun.

You are now young adults with a credential. You have the responsibility as a high school graduate to provide leadership in your schools, community, and nation. You can do this by voting and holding a public office. Being a School Committee member is not out of your grasp; nor is being actively involved in your community.

My sincerest best wishes for success in the job ahead.

Sincerely,

George O. Eisenberg

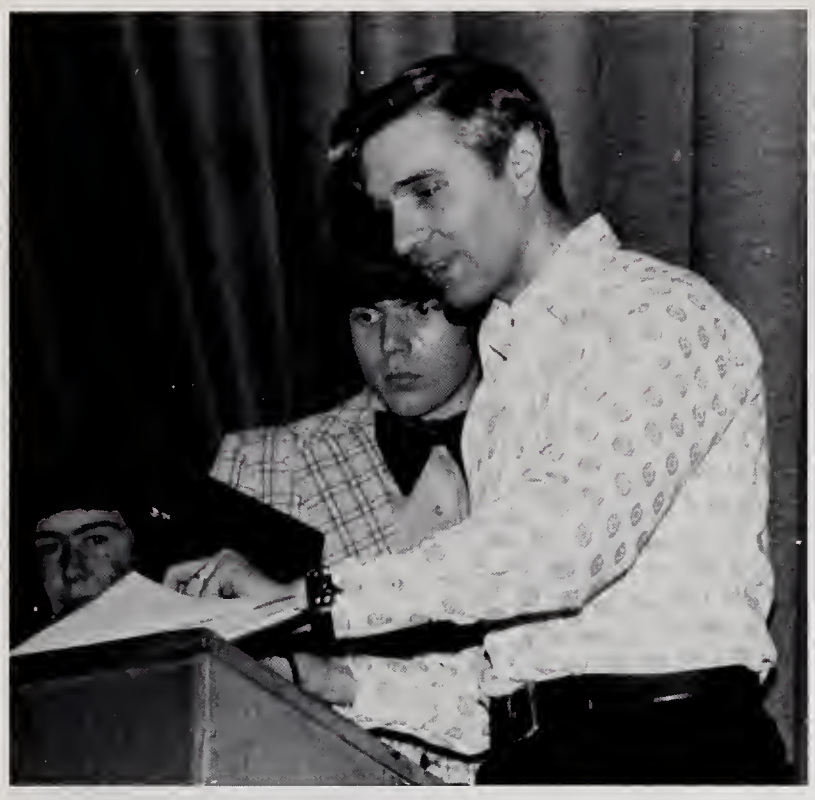
1975 TEACHER OF THE YEAR

FRANCIS P. KELLEY

Mr. Kelley is a dedicated teacher, not only in the classroom, but also on the athletic field. He is an inspiration to students. His energy and enthusiasm have influenced us, the Class of 1975. This is why we have chosen Mr. Kelley as Teacher of the Year.

"GET OUT OF MY CORRIDOR!"

CLASS ADVISOR



We have progressed and matured since we entered as freshman in 1971. Mr. Jones, our Class Advisor, was very helpful and concerned about making our years at the high school unforgetable. He has helped us through the difficult times from the Patrons' Drives, proms, dances, and JV Show to our graduation. For his assistance we are very grateful and wish him the best always.

MALCOLM W. JONES

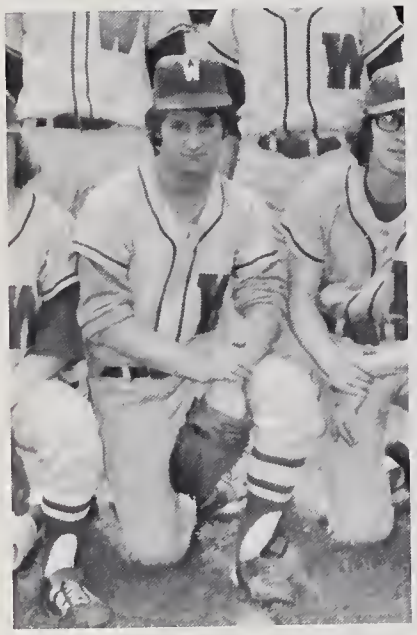
IN MEM

KEVIN F. NOLAN



The Boston Bruins are alive,
They took Toronto in a tuff five!
The Boston Bruins are so great,
They took St. Louis in four straight!
The opening whistle in Boston blew
And the periods close, St. Louis trailed by two.
For the rest of the series it was the same,
The St. Louis Blues were never in the game.
In the other series the Rangers flew,
And finished Chicago and waited for the crew.
Waiting for Boston, they wished they hadn't done,
Because the Bruins started off from the opening gun.
The mighty Orr was hurting, you could tell
But controlled the game as the Bruin crowd yell!
The Bruin gang could do nothing but score,
And after two, the Rangers trailed by four!
Out in the third period the Rangers came,
Skating hard, they tied the game.
But the Bruins didn't lose their cool,
Ace came down, and made Park a fool.
The crowd screamed and yelled as Ace flipped it by,
And the Garden scoreboard read 6-5!
The Boston Bruins won the game
And the New York Rangers left in shame.
Don't get me wrong the Rangers are tuff,
But they just don't have Bruin stuff.
They don't have Orr, and they don't have Pie,
And Espo and Cash and Hodge make N.Y. cry.
Let's face it people, Boston has the stuff,
And the only thing the Bruins give is alot of guff.
New York fans boast and brag,
But the Bruins fans know the series is in the bag!

VALEDICTORY

Hear ye! Hear ye! Today I pronounce you, the members of the class of 1975 of Wilmington High School to be fully mature, responsible, independent adults. Fully armed with a high school diploma and ready to meet the world head on, or as the case may be, the world will meet you, head on.

Ladies and gentlemen, let me tell you, I'd hate to be there when that crash occurs.

Let's use our imaginttions for a moment. What would that crash sound like?? The Wilmington High School Class of 1975 which you see around you faces a world of massive unemployment, energy shortages, world starvation, and hatred.

Clearly these are disasters brought on by present and past generations. Even so, these are problems which every graduate of high school or college today must deal with.

The phrase "It's every man for himself" has been the value on which are based international, national, and local relations. Many of the problems which we witness together today are brought about by competition among men and nations.

Rather than work together, we compete, and not contribute toward a common goal. Competition has been one of the harsh realities of our times. Indeed, idealism itself has fallen into virtual extinction. Our society tends to regard competition as a necessary evil, forced upon us. Unfortunately, we prefer competing against each other rather than contributing to each other.

Ideally, if men everywhere all contribute and work together, then all of these problems can, in time, be solved. No longer will there by hunger or starvation. Ecological disasters can be dealt with rationally and hopefully be avoided.

Rampant inflation can be cured and employment, not unemployment, will be a reality and not a dream.

How many of us can rightly say we are contributing fully to the improvement of our society?

Isn't each one of us principally in search of his own personal utopia?

These are questions to which we, as graduates, and all of us, as individuals and participants in society must respond. Yet I do not wish to present a pessimistic outlook for the future. I merely want us to be aware of the limitations of the present, when considering the possibilities of the future. It is time for a re-evaluation of our morals and ideals.

For, the future is now. Perhaps the phrase, "Do unto others, as you would have them do unto you", may help us contribute more to each others' lives and to society as a whole.

Henry David Thoreau once said, "If you have built castles in the air, your dreams need not be lost, just lay the foundations under them."

As we go forward into the future, we know nothing of what we will find. We can only see as far as our limited vision permits. When we arrive at the end of our vision, we can once again glimpse into the future and see as far as our eyes permit us.

Hey -
It was great knowing
you. Let's keep in touch okay.)
